STATE CAPITOL NEWS

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

An appeal for federal aid for California's relief situation has been asked by Gov. Frank F. Merriam of officials in Washington after it appeared certain that the state would be unable to carry the load at the present rate of expenditure.

In a letter to Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, the governor pointed out that relief rolls had not been reduced by work projects to the extent estimated and that the $2,000,000 a month in available state funds was not proving adequate. He estimated that the present rate of expenditure would leave the state without relief funds of any sort by next June.

California traffic fatalities reached a new high of 2,809 during 1935 and prompted state officials to inaugurate a new safety program throughout the state. The increase in traffic deaths comes late in the year after it had appeared a slight reduction, as compared with 1934, would be reported. An all-time high for any one month was reported in November when 303 persons were killed in automobile accidents.

In an attempt to iron out difficulties at San Quentin prison, Gov. Merriam completed the personnel of the state prison board with the appointment of James M. Allen, Yreka, and Edward L. Abbott, Santa Barbarba.

The board of prison directors has the power to appoint a successor to Warden James Holohan, resigned.

While the governor has indicated he favors appointment of Warden Court Smith of Folsom prison to the San Quentin post, he insists he will not interfere with action by the board.

A climax to the long controversy over award by the board of equalization of a liquor stamp contract to the American Decalcomania company of Chicago was reached when the state supreme court held the contract void because it had not been approved by the state department of finance.

As a result board officials feared the state faced a shortage in stamps and moved to stop a possible "monopoly" by preventing certain wholesale liquor dealers to buy up all the available stamp supply.

Later it was indicated the Chicago firm would be permitted to ship a batch of 10,000,000 stamps already manufactured and give the state time to prepare specifications and advertise for new bids.

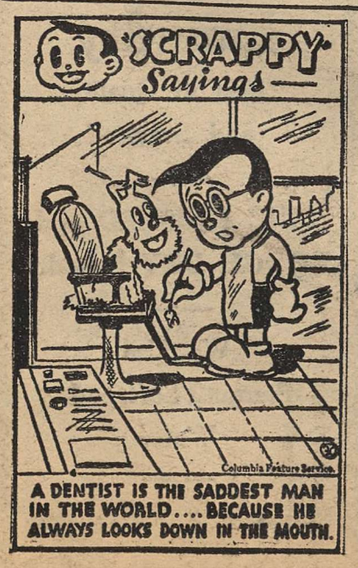

It was indicated the Chicago company would receive some pay for the stamps already furnished, despite the fact the contract was declared illegal.

An appeal to the United States supreme court prompted Gov. Merriam to issue a 90-day reprieve to Alexander MacKay and Joseph Kristey, San Quentin convicts under death sentence for participation in a prison break.

The case attracted considerable attention when the British government moved in to prevent MacKay's execution originally scheduled for February 28. MacKay is a British subject.

TRUCKEE DECREE GIVEN APPROVAL

Washoe and Fallon Water-Users Will Vote On Agreement and on A Repayment Contract for Construction Of Storage Reservior On April 7.

The attorney general's office in Washington Friday approved the proposed Truckee river decree and agreement, according to a telegram received by the board of directors of the Washoe County Water Conservation District from Senator Key Pittman. The board immediately set April 7 as the election date, when the water users of the district will vote on the agreement and also on a repayment contract for construction of an up-stream storage reservior in the Little Truckee river.

Water users of the Fallon district may also vote on the agreement at the regular district election on April 7, or soon thereafter.

The interior department, reclamation service, Indian bureau and the attorney general's office have now approved the proposed decree, of which the Truckee river agreement is a part, and according to Pittman's wire, Attorney General Cummings has sent it back to Ethelbert Ward, special counsel for the department of justice in the Truckee river suit, for filing in the federal court.

The decree and stipulation will be placed in escrow for final federal court action when the up-stream storage reservior is completed, providing the water users of the Washoe districts approve the decree by direct vote, it was explained.

20th Century Company To Arrive Monday

A company of thirty will arrive on Monday or Tuesday from the 20th Century Fox Film Studio to begin work on the outdoor drama White Fangs. This is a Jack London story and will feature "Buck" the St. Bernard dog who made such a hit in the "Call of the Wild." Jean Muir and John Boles will play the leads in this picture.

David Butler, who is well known here, will be the director in charge of the picture.

Harry Johanson and his dog team will be used in the picture.

State Income Tax Deputy Here Mar. 10-11

The State is sending an Income Tax Deputy to Truckee on March 10th and 11th, to assist taxpayers with their State Income Tax returns.

The deputy will be stationed in the Sierra Tavern and will have with him a supply of the necessary forms. The California Income Tax act is modeled along the lines of the Federal Income Tax law, and like the latter requires the filing of a return where the net income of a single individual for the year 1935 amounts to $1000, or where the net income of a married man living with his wife amounts to $2500. A return is also required when the gross income amounts to $5000, even if the net income is less than the above noted amounts.

It should be noted, too, that under the State Act, the salaries of State County and City employes are subject to tax.

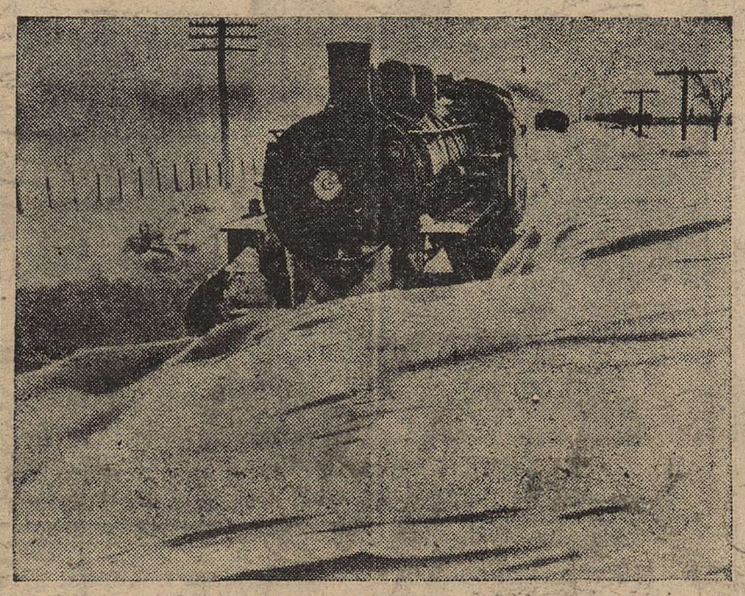

Gene Barton Receives Promotion to Corporal

Gene Barton, son of Mrs. A. B. Polyanich, has recently been promoted to corporal in his company. He is the youngest non-commissioned officer in the regiment.

Gene is stationed at Fort Mills, Phillipine Islands and is with the 60th Anti Aircraft. He expects to leave Fort Mills on July 9th for Ching wan tao, China and will be back in this country in the fall.

He attended the West Point prep school at Manila for six months and took the examination for entrance to West Point Military Academy. The result of the examination has not yet been given out.

Middle West Trains Stuck in Snow

With snowdrifts reaching nearly to the top of telephone and telegraph poles, many trains were stalled throughout the Middle West during one of the worst snow storms in years. This engine was part of a train that was snowbound 14 hours before the cars were pulled out backwards. Now a snow plow can be seen coming to the rescue of the engine, one mile from Jackson, Wis.

Assessing For County Tax Starts This Week

On Monday at noon the new tax year began, and all property will be assessed to those who own it at that particular time, according to the statutes of the State of California.

County Assessor John M. Hammill and his deputies started on Tuesday the work of listing all property.

In addition to listing property to its various owners for the purpose of assessment, the assessor and his deputies will collect taxes on all unsecured personal property, that is personal property belonging to persons who do not own real estate.

Mr. Hammill states that all veterans claiming exemption on account of war service must present their honorable discharge papers showing date of enlistment and discharge from service. This is required for the purpose of re-checking the exemptions.

The State Board of Equalization has instructed county assessors throughout the state as follows:

"Pending later opinions and court decisions, assessors will be required to assess, within their jurisdiction, all automobiles, either new or secondhand, in possession of dealers or individuals at 12 noon on the first Monday in March, 1936, on which the state license fee has not been paid to the State Department of Motor Vehicles.

"Before issuing 1936 licenses on these cars the Department of Vehicles will require tax clearance validated by city and county assessors."

This is the same procedure that has been heretofore required before new registration slips and plates could be obtained by motorists but which was changed by the law passed by the 1935 legislature.

Championship Meet At Tahoe March 15

The State Championship ski meet which was forced to be postponed on February 23rd by the Lake Tahoe Ski Club due to storm conditions, will be held on Sunday, March 15th. The new date has been granted to the Lake Tahoe Ski Club by C. Edmunds, secretary of the California Ski Association, as the Yosemite Winter Sports Club have relinquished this date.

The A and B jumping will be held on this date also the downmountain and slalom races. An added attraction will be a jumping contest for the novice class.

School Funds Ready About March 15th

The trustees of the Truckee School District are assured that funds for the erection of the new grammar school building will be available about the 15th of this month. Weather permitting it is expected that work will start at once to demolish the present school building.

A sketch of the proposed new grammar school building is now on display in the window of the Sierra Sun office.

Level Of Tahoe Is Now Highest Since 1929

The elevation of Lake Tahoe is now 6223.78 feet above sea level, its highest point for the year so far, while that figure also represents the highest elevation for the lake in 1935. It reached that level on July 28 last year.

The elevation is also the highest to be recorded as of March 1 since 1929, when it was 6223.90. While it is the highest since March 1, 1929, it is not the highest level as of March 1 to be recorded at the lake since 1901. Several times the lake has reached higher than 6227 feet and once, March 1, 1917, it reached 6228.32 feet.

On March 1 last year the level was 6221.90, the lowest it has ever been on any March 1 since 1901. Snow depth at Tahoe City however, was less than last year. The depth was 58.3 inches, while it was sixty-two inches a year ago. A heavy storm had brought twenty-two inches of new snow last year, while the weather is now fair and warm. The water content of the snow is 22.5 inches.

School Sessions Resumed At Grammar School

Sessions were resumed at the Truckee Grammar School on Monday morning with the attendance record nearly normal. The school was closed for two weeks due to the large number of pupils who were absent due to illness. The large number of pupils who have been absent during the winter brings the average daily attendance to a low figure, and if this cannot be made up, there is a possibility that there will be only two teachers for next year. The trustees are asking the parents to make every effort to have their children attend school regularly that the attendance record may be kept up and thus keep the three teachers.

Four new pupils have been added to the school rolls when the school re-opened.

The pictures which will be shown are entitled: Forest Fires, How Forests Serve, Lest We Forget, Smoke, Why, She's Wild, and Game Trails. The program will last two and one half hours.

Conservation Week Set For March 7 to 14

Governor Frank F. Merriam has proclaimed the period March 7 to 14 as California Conservation Week, and has requested all interested organizations, agencies, groups and individuals, and particularly the public schools of the State to recognize and encourage this observance. The chief purpose of the week is to promote a year-round educational program for the conservation of the State's natural resources, and to arouse public interest in fire prevention, tree planting, water and soil conservation and roadside beautification.

Governor Merriam's proclamation said in part: "We have within our State a wider variety of natural resources than are found in any other area of equal size in our country. Our beautiful forests and other native flora, our wild life, streams, lakes and seashore constitute the greatest pride of the commonwealth. Their preservation bears definitely upon the future welfare of the State. We must be vigilant in the prevention of forest fires soil erosion and the depletion of water resources. Public opinion must be mobilized in order to secure greater observance of conservation laws."

OFFICERS HALT CAR THIEVES

Two Youths Caught After Wild Chase and Officers Open Fire On Car.

Rodney William Kirby and Bernard Emchwerf arrested Monday night by Officer C. E. McKeen, Deputy Sheriff Tom Dolley and Frank Carson after a wild chase from the checking station, through town and to the Reno Highway near the Hobart Railroad crossing.

Kirby and Emch allegedly stole an automobile in North Sacramento which belonged to Frank Holtz, manager of the Del Paso Theatre on Monday afternoon, and headed for the mountains. At Applegate they stopped for gasoline, then drove off without paying the charges it is claimed. The attendant telephoned to the deputy sheriff at Gold Run, giving him a description of the car and the license number, but the driver would not stop when flagged and the officer fired five shots after it.

A teletype message was received at the checking station here and Officer C. E. McKeen, Deputy Sheriff Dolley and Frank Carson, clerk at the checking station were waiting when the car appeared. M. Barnes, an employee of the highway department signaled with a red lantern for the car to stop as it neared the checking station, but the driver speeded up and the officers then opened fire. They pursued the car through town and opened fire again when they reached the Reno highway. The men were forced to stop when one of the bullets punctured the front tire. Five bullets struck the back of the car.

The men were broubht back to Truckee and then taken to the county jail at Nevada City where they were held. Officers from Sacramento came to Nevada City on Tuesday and took the two men back with them.

T. V. A. DECISION IMPORTANT

Regardless of their attitude toward the TVA decision, California editors generally felt the ruling would discourage in large measure assertions of political bias on the part of the supreme court.

The court's action, it was agreed, further substantiated its traditional reputation for fearlessness and conscientious application to duty and responsibility.

"Next to the AAA issue, decided a few weeks ago," said the Eureka Humboldt Standard, "no question involving constitutionality of New Deal ideas and ventures holds such widespread significance as the Tennessee Valley Authority, affecting as it does a score of power development projects sponsored by the federal government. One of the fundamental questions of the broad Tennessee Valley development program is that it may be financed from the sale of power developed at the dams. Had the court held this unconstitutional, it would have cut the heart out of the entire project. Moreover, it is probable that it would have sounded the death knell of various other New Deal development projects."

"While the great majority of Americans," according to the Visalia Times Delta, "will oppose attempts to closely regiment their certain lines the government should be permntted a free hand. There will always be overlapping where such projects cross the fields of existing public utilities, and the people's investments in these enterprises must be protected; but there is no reason why such problems should not be worked out harmoniously as they develop without either abandoning government projects or destroying private ones."

"The wide sweep of the court's ruling," notes the Los Angeles Illustrated Daily News, "cannot be measured without reading the entire history of the case. To the layman it is more easily comprehensible when he is asked to consider what would have happened if the court had declared that TVA was unconstitutional, for such a decision would raise the question as to whether any unit of government, acting for the people, could operate a public utility in competition with private industry."

"The ruling holds, in short," points out the Santa Rosa Press Democrat, "that government has the right to improve streams for navagation by building dams. It also holds constitional government's right to sell the power the dam projects create by impounding the water. There is no doubt in anybody's mind that government is within its rights in improving navigation. The same thing is true in regard to the conservation of water needed in the dry season of the year. That is highly desirable as well as constitutional. And it would be nothing less than folly to create a tremendous lot of power and then let it go to waste."

Political effects of the decision, in the opinion of the Fullerton News Tribune, "will be somewhat contraditory. One result will be to strengthen the administration in its announced purpose to aid industrial development and give the masses cheaper electricity. Another will be to appease the feeling that the high court has become only an obstacle to progressive legislation, thus nullifying in a large degree the administration's political strategy of making itself a victim of judicial "tyranny" in attempting to meet modern problems."

Comparing the situation of the supreme court to that of a baseball umpire, the Turlock Daily Journal remarks that "when the court threw out the NRA and the AAA, the home team was all against the umpire and called him names. When he ruled the Gold Clause Acts and the TVA safe, he was a good umpire. Meanwhile the reverse was being thought by fans for the other team. The probabilties were that the umpire was doing a good job all the time and calling them in accordance with the rules of the game."

A CRIMINAL COMPLAINS

"Alcatraz is awful—they never give a guy a break."

These are the words of the latest prisoner released from that lortresslike Federal prison on o little island just inside the Golden Gate. And the tendency of some persons to feel sorry for him and the other men behind those impenetrable grey stone walls is a little difficult to understand.

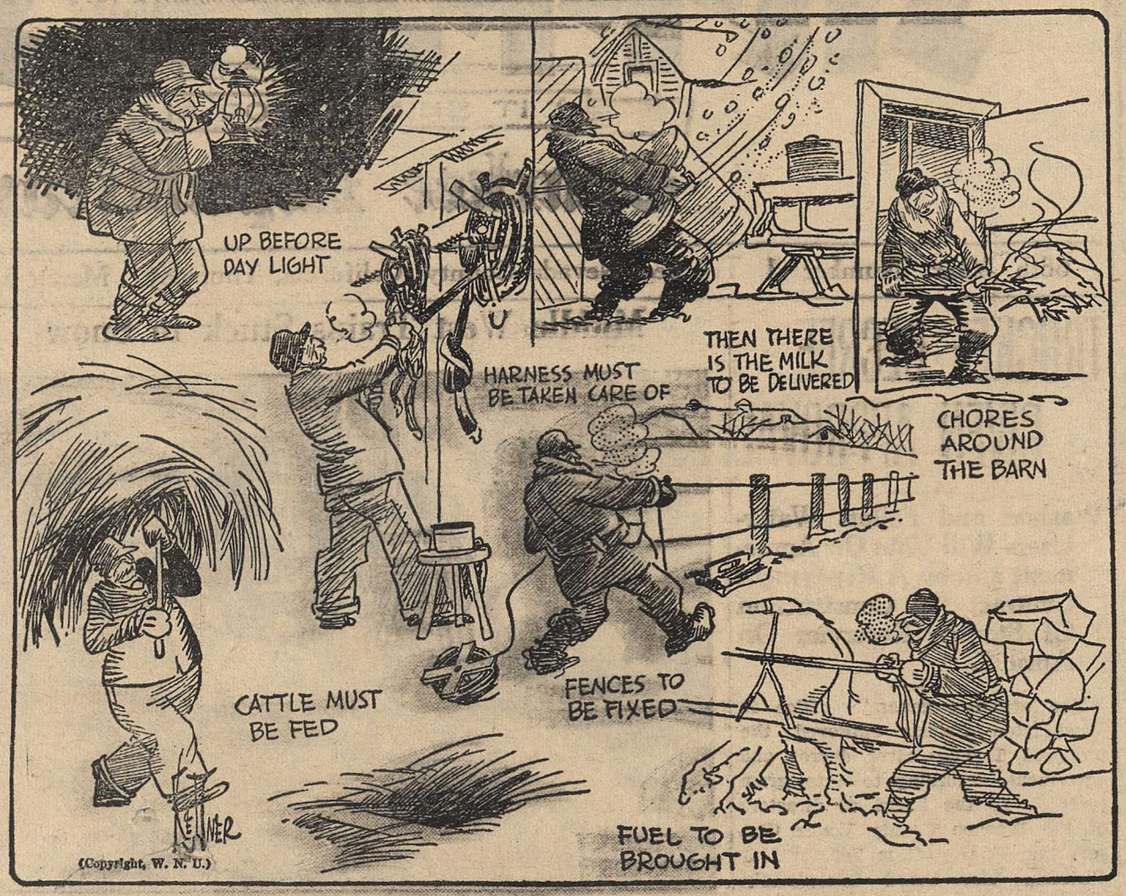

Certainly Alcatraz is no country club, with all the superior appointments of a Ritz-Carleton Hotel, but even so there has yet come to light no evidence that treatment given criminals there is inhumane.

There are plenty of people who find that even an honest life is tough and is not altogether overflowing with good "breaks"—people who have not murdered or swindled someone.

Probably the thing that causes prisoners to complain more about Alcatraz than other institutions is the eternal silence of the place. Once inside its walls the criminal becomes nobody, just a number, and his photograph is no longer spread over front pages, as it might continue to be if he had been put in some other prison.

So long as prisoners leave the island penitentiary feeling they would not soon like to be back, and so long as the underworld fears it, Alcatraz will be accomplishing its purpose.

What Does a Farmer Do in the Winter?

THE SEA HAS MANY VOICES

This morning I am going to try may hand at something that I do not recall ever having encountered either in a periodical or in a book, namely, a chapter on the ways, the forms, and the sounds of ocean near a beach.

They say here that great waves reach this coast in threes. Three great waves, then an indeterminate run of lesser rhythms, then three great waves again. On Celtic coasts it is the seventh wave that is seen coming like a king out of the grey, cold sea. The Cape tradition, however, is no half-real, half-mystical fancy, but the truth itself. Great waves do indeed approach this beach by threes. Again and again have I watched three giants roll in one after the other out of the Atlantic, cross the outer bar, break, form again and follow each other in to fulfillment and destruction on this solitary beach. Coast guard crews are all well aware of this triple rhythm and take advantage of the lull that follows the last wave to launch their boats.

It is true that there are single giants as well. I have been roused by them in the night. Waked by their tremendous and unexpected crash, I have sometimes heard the last of their heavy overspill, sometimes only the loud, withdrawing roar. After the roar came a briefest pause, and after the pause the return of ocean to the night's long cadences. Such solitary titans, flinging their green tons down upon a quiet world, shake beach and dune. Late one September night, as I sat reading, the very father of all waves must have flung himself down before the house, for the quiet of the night was suddenly overturned by a gigantic, tumbling crash and an earthquake rumbling; the beach trembled beneath the avalanche, the dune shook, and my house so shook on its dune that the flame of a lamp quivered and pictures jarred on the wall.

The three great elemental sounds in nature are the sound of rain, the sound of wind in a primeval wood, and the sound of outer ocean on a beach. I have heard them all, and of the three elemental voices, that of ocean is the most awesome, beautiful and varied. For it is a mistake to talk of the monotone of ocean or of the monotonous nature of its sound. The sea has many voices. Listen to the surf, really lend it your ears, and you will hear in it a world of sounds: hollow boomings and heavy roarings, great watery rumblings and tramplings, long hissing seethes, sharp, rifle-shot reports, splashes, whispers, the grinding undertone of stones, and sometimes vocal sounds that might be the half-heard talk of people in the sea. And not only is the great sound varied in the manner of its making, it is also constantly changing its tempo, its pitch its accent, and its rhythm, being now loud and thundering, now almost placid, now furious, now grave and solemn-slow, now a simple measure, now a rhythm monstrous with a sense of purpose and elemental will.

Every mood of the wind, every change in the day's weather, every phase of the tide—all these have subtle sea musics all their own. Surf of the ebb, for instance, is one music,surf of the flood another, the change in the two musics being most clearly marked during the first hour of a rising tide. With the renewal of tidal energy, the sound of the surf grows louder, the fury of battle returns to it as it turns again on the land, and beat and sound change with the renewal of the war.

Sound of the surf in these autumnal dunes—the continuousness of it, sound of endless charging, endless incoming and gathering—. I have been trying to study out the mechanics of that mighty resonance. The dominant note is the great spilling crash made by each arriving wave. It may be hollow and booming, it may be heavy and churning, it may be a tumbling roar. The second fundamental sound is the wild seething cataract roar of the wave's dissolution and the rush of its foaming waters up the beach—this second sound diminuendo. The third fundamental sound is the endless dissolving hiss of the inmost slides of foam. The first two sounds reach the ear as a unisonance—the booming impact of the tons of water and the wild roar of the uprush blending—and this mingled sound dissolves into the foam-bubble hissing of the third. Above the tumult, like birds, fly wisps of watery noise, splashes and counter splashes, whispers, seethings, slaps, and chucklings. An overtone sound of other breakers, mingled with a general rumbling, fills earth and sea and air.—Henry Beston in "The Outermost House."

Politically Speaking

By GEARGE E. HELMER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Mar. 5 —(UP)— Eight and possibly more tickets will appear on the presidential primary ballot in California May 5 unless present plans, being formulated in various camps, are changed.

Almost certain to appear, in addition to the official list of delegates pledged to President Roosevelt on the democratic ticket, are the names of Upton Sinclair, Gov. Eugene Talmage of Georgia, and possibly Congressman McGroarty, democrats; Gov. Alf. M. Landon of Kansas and Gov. Frank F. Merriam on the republican ballot.

In addition, there probably will be a list of uninstructed republican delegates, and possibly a group pledged to support Senator William Borah, Idaho. The socialist party will have a candidate, and it was likely that the communists and prohibitionists also would present their choice.

If all those appear, the electors will have the choice of 11 tickets.

Landon's announcement that he would not seek a pledged delegation in California was not interpreted here to mean his name would not appear on the ballot. It merely meant he, personally, would not enter the fight. But the organizations sponsoring him will proceed with their plans to place California in his column.

Republicans continued to be split over the question whether to commit themselves to a candidate or honor Earl Warren's plea for an uninstructed delegation which would have to have a nominal candidate for legal purposes but could swing its actual support to the best candidate available at the time of the June convention. Merriam forces demanded a pledged delegation, and Landon followers were fighting to have the delegation committed to the Kansan. Activity in behalf of Borah was less pronounced.

Senator Culbert Olson's withdrawal from the official list of democratic delegates, and his statement that he could best serve the party and president by not accepting the appointment indicated to observers that he planned to remain neutral, staying out of the democratic primary fight.

That would leave Upton Sinclair and the EPIC-democrats as the major forces opposed to the "official" delegation, but Sinclair already has said he hoped to lead the delegation as presidential candidate only to carry the End Proverty program back to the convention. He would have the delegation give him a vote on the first ballot, then swing its united support behind President Roosevelt.

McGroaty is running as a Townsend supporting candidate, but the Townsend Old Age Pension organization announced it was not endorsing any candidate for any party, Talmage definitely is a candidate but his campaign in California has slumbered thus far.

On the eve of a Republican Assembly meeting in Visalia—the organization is composed of young republicans—word was circulated in the capitol that two employes in the department of motor vehicles had been refused permission to leave Sacramento to attend the meeting.

They were Paul Mason, administrative assistant to Ray Ingels, director, and Frank Read, Ingels' secretary. Mason is vice president of the Assembly.

The fact that the previous Assembly meeting had not been very friendly toward Merriam was hinted to have been the reason for Mason and Read being advised to stay away.

State Farms Give Report

SACRAMENTO, Mar. 5 —(UP)— Agriculture and diary products valued at approximately $945,000 were produced last year at farms operated in connection with state institutions, Harry Lutgens, director of the institutions department, reported.

Expenditures in the farming operations totaled approximately $685,000, leaving a net return of $260,000, he said.

TAHOE REGION NEWS

By Swanee

So many times during the winter months one hears over various radio programs a plea to those living in the mountainous regions to feed the birds which otherwise would perish by the hundreds for want of food. The task is an intensely interesting one and furnishes much amusement while also displaying real charity toward the poor, little, helpless feathered visitors. The writer has spent hours during the severe winter storms in this diverting pastime and marveled at the short period of time in which these little fellows become quite tame and friendly. On my kitchen window sill is scattered daily, bread crumbs, bacon rinds and pieces of tallow, three popular items of bird diet. The most faithful boarders are the little gray snow birds, or chickadees, the nut hatches, small wood peckers and the pine crow. with an occasional blue jay dropping in for an hasty entree when the festive board is deserted. Although a veritable despot in the forest domain, the latter is a coward and does not readily make friends. The orange breasted nut hatches and small wood peckers are far the most audacious and will scold and argue at the slightest provocation putting their more timid brethern to flingt while they ravage the rustic lunch counter.

During the terrific blizzard which raged for two week almost unabated recently, the Charles Swanson kitchen held 'open house' for the shivering, famished, half-frozen regular customers of the bird family. I opened my kitchen window daily about two inches and it was not long before they discovered how cozy and warm it was inside, and with a cheerful little chirp would hop in and line themselves up in the corner of the sill beside the range, and sometimes even on top of it. It seemed incredulous that these wild little fellows would sit there so quietly and fearlessly for an hour or more, not even stirring when someone approached. Tamely they ate from our hands, sharing the crumbs quite peacefully.

Strange to say the entire family, and especially my small son, has learned to watch with anticipation for the regular appearances of these strange wild little visitors who seem by their very friendliness and absolute lack of fear to assure us of their gratitude and appreciation. Surely none but the heartless could resist their cheery snatches of song, or good natured scolding as they brighten up the drabness of an empty widowsill.

What with my little furred and feathered friends on the kitchen window sill and a pot of beautiful, fragrant, red white and blue hyacinths blooming in my living room window, it's beginning to look like spring (despite the heavy blanket of snow outside) is not far distant.

Among others at the lake who feed the birds regularly and enjoy their antics are the H. D. Wordens of Sunnyside who tack the strips of bacon and suet to the trunks of nearby trees; Chris Nielsen of Tahoe Pake, who also hangs their favorite diet out in convenient places and even feeds them crumbs from his hands; the William Topps of Homewood who save all their scraps and crumbs for the forest serenaders and the James Fergusons of the McClatchey estate who have fastened a box outside the kitchen window where food is placed and the birds can sit in out of the storm if they so desire. All of these families derive real pleasure and much amusement from watching the hungry little fellows feasting away to their hearts content and many are the rare and beautiful songsters who visit our region and partake of our friendly rations. Their names and natural habits are unknown even to the wisest of us, who feel well repaid for our humane efforts in catching even a fleeting glimpse of some of these rare specimens of Nature's most magnificent handiwork.

Dinner hosts last week were Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Vernon of the Bettencourt Tract who entertained at dinner Mr. and Mrs. Charles Swanson and son Jimmie and Harry Johanson.

From Richland, Iowa, comes word of the Johnsons, former Tahoe residents, well known here. Their son Duane, 18, is now a member of the Jefferson Co. Loop basketball team, champions of the middlewest. Their points for the season are 654 as compared to the total of 361 for the combined forces of their opponents.

Five Tahoe boys, James Worden, Carl Bechdolt., Junior Henry and Charles and Oliver Henrikson will leave on Saturday morning early for Cisco to participate in the California Interscholastic wintersports highschool meet sponsored by the Auburn Ski Club. A large number of Tahoe residents plan to attend if the weather continues clear.

Tommy and Flora Hunkins, accompanied by a party of friends, spent the week end at their Tahoe home. They are making preparations to go to ranching in the near future near Santa Rosa. Chickens and grain will be their principal items of production.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Pomin of Tahoe and Misses Margaret and Ida Pomin were to leave on Tuesday for a vacation trip to warmer climes. All have been suffering from the ill after affects of severe colds.

Tahoe's most remarkable mother is beyond all doubt Mrs. Henry Soll, who celebrated her 10th birthday authentically on February 29th last although the mother of a 25 year old daughter. She is perhaps the only Tahoeite whose natal day falls on leap year's extra day. With her husband she was guest at an impromptu birthday dinner on Saturday at the Charles Swanson home. With the coming of spring Mrs. Soll will be sporting a beautiful new Packard sedan, the gift of an appreciative husband.

The name of James Worden, state meet contestant, was omitted through error from last week's column. We hasten to give his rating. He tied for 6th place in D jumps making two jumps of 47 feet each, with a point total of 167.7.

Mr. and Mrs. James Sly of Sacramento who have been visiting the home of the James Fergusons in the Sunnyside District returned home on Monday.

A recent visitor at the home of her parents was Miss Mildred Watson, who was escorted from San Francisco by George Collins, an old friend formerly of Auburn.

Local residents are urged to register before Mar. 5th when registrations for all city elections close. Registrations for subsequent elections will continue on however until further notice.

Harry Johanson made a trip to Reno one day last week which was anything but uninteresting. Nearing Verdi he rounded a curve to find a full grown doe standing in the highway directly in his path, refusing to move out of the way. Only after considerable horn blowing did the young lady condescend to move off the highway. A little further on a coyote scooted across the highway in front of the car and was stunned temporarily. Harry got out and put it out of it's misery with a revolver shot. Then a little further on lay a ground hog, weighing around 15-pounds which had just lost it's life in a traffic accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Marshall were hosts at dinner on Thursday night entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Joe Henry and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kohler.

Miss Thelma Griffith and George Campbell of Oakland airlines and Miss Donaldine Grass of Sacramento were recent guests of the A. M. Anderson family in town for a week.

March came in at Tahoe like a harmless little lamb, with the sun shining and roads wide open again for tourists. Many visitors took advantage of the cleared weather conditions over the week end on Sunday and enjoyed skiing parties on the white slopes at Tahoe.

Although it is too early as yet to give the exact water content of the snow, locally, Reno papers have already predicted a heavier content this year than any year since 1911. One thing is sure, there will be no low levels at the lake this summer, with the spring thaw sending up the figures another two, or possibly three, feet.

Many Tahoe residents have been suffering from various illness during the past few weeks. Among them are Patsy Henry who is undergoing treatment at Hobart Mills Hospital several times weekly for an abscessed ear which developed following a bad cold which kept her indoors for a week or more.

Rex Mawdsley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mawdsley, at this writing is very ill with pneumonia, contracted following an attack of flu. His mother who had gone to the bay cities to shake a bad cold and sore throat which she suffered from a two week's siege of flu, along with her husband, was hastily called back to Tahoe when her son's condition became worse on Thursday. Jimmie Mandeville and the boy's father proved adept nurses during her absence. If his condition does not improve within the next few days his mother plans to take him to a warmer clime.

The Misses Ida and Margaret Pomin who were ill for weeks with flu are much improved and able to be about again, although Margaret is not entirely recovered from the effects of her illness.

Mrs. John Stevens was reported in bed again with a recurrence of cold and grippe, and Mrs. Northie Pomin is also still suffering from a cold of long standing. Little Mary Jane Soll who was indisposed at her home in town was also the victim of a bad earache, the aftermath of a cold. Alice Soll too was among cold sufferers last week for several days.

After the extreme cold weather Tahoe has been receiving, the present sunny weather seems almost like a heat wave. A number of small summer homes are collapsing with the thawing of the snow, among these are the Matthews' Electric Shop at Tahoe Vista, the property of Sam Platt, Reno attorney, and the home of Fred Verco of Brockway Vista, an unfinished new house. Neither place was large and the damage was placed at several hundred dollars. Another little summer home in Tahoe Pines district was believed down with the weight of the snow, the owner said to be a Reno woman. Eight to ten feet of snow remains in many sections, with the depth less in the vicinity of Tahoe City.

Cecil Bowman and son Kenneth of Homewood left on Wednesday for Los Angeles where they will visit for a few weeks.

MEEKS BAY

Geo. Davis of San Francisco was a recent week end guest of Captain and Mrs. Jack Hale of the "Tower."

Mrs. Marie Henry of Tahoe City was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Walker last week.

The H and W Philanthropic Club of this vicinity met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hale with the president, Mrs. Chas. Heller, presiding. The club met for the purpose of reorganizing. A constitution and by-laws were properly adopted by the members, and principles and objects discussed and voted on. Five new members were greeted by a mock initation ceremony, creating much fun. A social time was enjoyed after the business meeting and refreshments were served.

Several parties opened cottages over the Washington Birthday week-end intending to attend the snow carnival and ski meet, but were marooned owing to the recent heavy snowfall which closed the highway.

The parties were: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bergreen of Millbrae, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Radford Kiefer; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lawson and Mr. and Mrs. Pete Mitchell of Sacramento who spent the week end in the James Murphy summer home across from Meeks Bay.

Guests who reserved cottages at Meadow Park were Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Sohr and Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Voorhies all of Oakland.

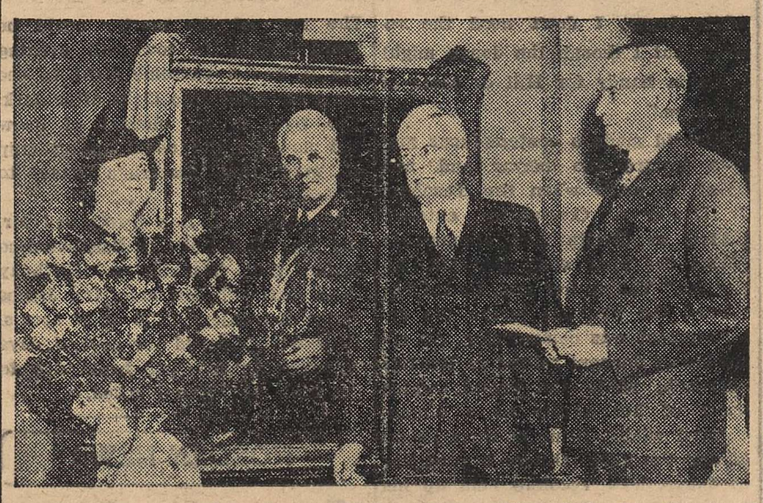

The visitors had an experience they will not soon forget. They realized what it means to be shut off from the outer world with no electricity, no telephone, no radio and not even a daily paper. Plowing through eight ft. of snow without the aid of snow shoes was not easy for the "city folks."

Mr. and Mrs. William Warwick of Meadow Park have been very ill in an Oakland hospital. They are now at the home of Mrs. Warwick's daughter in Oakland where they are both recuperating.

The snow shoveling crew at Lake Tahoe are not novices at the job of shoveling snow, as they have had three weeks of steady wielding of the snow shovel.

STOCKTON Mar. 5 — (UP)— Charles Monk, newly appointed police officer, had the doubtful pleasure of making out his first automobile accident report recently. The report referred to a damaged fender on an official car driven by Charles Monk.

CHAPTER III

After weary miles of walking, Jim Kearney arrived in Monterey and went straight to Mayor Hill's office. Despite the lateness of the hour, the executive was waiting. He greeted the mysterious Kearney with delight.

"I had about given up hope of seeing you," he said with great relief. "Heard from the stagecoach driver that you had dropped off for a single-handed brush with Don Carlos. I was afraid you'd be shot or strung up."

Jim immediately launched into an account of his encounter with the bandit. When he had finished, Hill shook his head doubtfully.

"You did the only thing possible under the circumstances, seeing that you are a government agent," he sighed. "But I can't help wishing that stage coach had been a little late. If ever a man needed hanging it was Joe Kincaid, the land grabber. You'll find it's your headache, Kearney. With Kincaid out of the way your job'd be half done."

"Just the same, hanging people is a government monopoly."

"Remember, I'm at your service at any time," said the raw-boned mayor after a moment's thought. "Make this place your headquarters."

"That's just what I can't do. I've got to play this hand alone from now on. Whatever happens, you don't know a thing. I'm nobody—you never heard of me."

"I can see you're going to be pretty busy in this crazy place," sighed the mayor. Then, brightening. "But don't miss the fiesta tonight."

"Even a government man takes a night off now and then," laughed Jim as he saluted and moved toward the door through which came the sound of the revelry in the streets outside.

While Kearney had been conferring with Hill, Rosita had arrived at the fiesta and taken her place on the throne of the Queen. Don Luis, Castro, Dona Petrona and others of the household who had been awaiting her arrival with growing anxiety, sighed with relief.

"I'm sorry I am so late," apologized the girl, "I was with Father Antonio, confessing my sins."

"All these hours?" grumbled her father.

"I have so many sins," she answered gaily. "And it's such a pleasure to tell them."

As she spoke Kincaid and Mayor Hill approached. The land-grabber was angrily informing the mayor that something had to be done about Don Carlos. "I had a little mixup with him," he said, rubbing his sore throat reflectively.

"What kind of a man is this Carlos, senor," interrupted Rosita, leaning down from her throne, "that he would dare such a thing—what did you call it—mixup?"

"Oh, he had his men with him," Kincaid answered with a stiff bow. "It was probably just a joke anyway."

"Tell me about him," teased the girl. "Is he big and strong—like you?"

"He's a little squirt not any taller than yourself," grumbled the land grabber. "Why, a girl like you couldn't look at him twice. But anyway, he's out tonight, riding a white horse. I don't need the reward, but I though the dough might come in handy for Hill or some of his boys."

Kincaid made a contemptuous gesture toward the mayor and was about to leave when the Tecolero, or Master of Ceremonies, entered, turned to Rosita and announced: "Time for your song Senorita. Allow me." Taking her arm, he led her toward the platform where the entertainment was commencing. An ensemble of dancers retired at Rosita's approach, while the crowd, which knew of her ability as a singer, cheered wildly. Some of them shouted for the song. Others begged her to dance. The Tecolero held up his hand and as the tumult subsided, Rosita started to sing an old Spanish song in a rich contralto.

"My true lover is strong and fearless and fine
And his kisses are like roses
and wine;
I'm a poor little senorita
And to think I would ever a Lover so divine—
But he's only a dream."

As the song continued, Kearney, who had been wandering about in search of amusement, crowded into the front rank of Rosita's audience, and stood at the edge of the platform, smiling at her, as she sang:

"Tonight may be the night
when he will appear.
Tonight may be my true lover is here.
He may be a torero
He may be a vaquero
Or he may be
You!"

With the last word the girl pointed her finger straight at Kearney. The applause from the crowd was terrific, and shouts of "Que baile!" "Elbaile de sombrero!" filled the air.

As Rosita bowed and started to leave, the men began tossing their big hats onto the platform at her feet. The orchestra started a dance tune and the senorita began her sombrero dance.

Castro and Don Luis were annoyed at what they considered her lack of dignity but Dona Petrona was pleased and amused.

"Bless me, the girl's got spirit. Wish I could do that myself," she beamed.

Kearney watched her graceful evolutions with delight. Finally he turned to an old Spaniard beside him and asked:

"If she dances on a man's hat it means she likes him, doesn't it?"

"Si, senor."

"Say, could you lend me yours?"

"It is my pleasure," answered the other, handing him his huge sombrero.

Kearney caught the dancer's eye, then tossed the hat to the platform. Her feet came closer and closer to it, then retreated teasingly. Finally, as the crowd murmured its delight, she stepped onto the wide brim and began to encircle it.

"The hat of an American. I will not allow—" began Castro.

"You will not allow yourself to make a scene," whispered Dona Petrona, and her son subsided.

As Rosita finished the dance and started to run back to her box, Kearney leaped forward and followed her. Don Luis and Castro glared at what they considered the American's bad manners but Rosita introduced her family with a flourish.

"We are going, Rosita," said Castro as he turned brusquely away. "The coach is waiting."

As Don Luis also walked away frowning, Kearney looked at him with distate.

"Your brother?" he asked, nodding toward the young Spaniard.

"Don Luis?" asked Rosita. Then, with a mocking smile. "No, no, he's my husband.

As Kerney stood crestfallen, the girl, who had started to follow the others, turned back and added: (

"—my husband—to be."

ing dinner guests earlier in the evening. The following attended: Mr. and Mrs. D. Dundas, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Murray and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilson.

Mrs. Lester Edwards is able to be out again after a severe attack of lumbago.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry French entertained a few friends on Saturday evening honoring their house guests Dr. and Mrs. Sweetman, of Sebastapol.

Hobart students of the Meadow Lake Union High School were able to resume school this week after being home all of last week due to the Truckee Road being closed. The Truckee road was closed for the longest time this winter on account of the deep snow requiring the big snowplow to clear the road. The roar of the mortor could be heard plainly in town all evening and it was a welcome sight to see the plow come into sight after dark. The road is, all cleared of snow and now its the usual spring crop of mud that motorists have to contend with.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Swett and Mr. and Mrs. Gus Lotti of SanFrancisco spent the Washington Birthday week end with Mr. and Mrs. James Percy and enjoyed the snow sports. They were delayed for several days in returning to their home due to the highway being blocked.

NORDEN NEWS

The cool northerner that settled over this region late last week completely dissipated whatever good intention Jupiter Pluvius might have had. Storm clouds appeared with a trace of snow last Wednesday night, but with a high pressure area on all sides, the low pressure was dispatched to more suitable atmosphere in its particular line.

Several hundred tourists arrived from the valley and surrounding communities to enjoy snow sports. Snow sports could not be enjoyed a week ago due to a raging snow storm.

Darrell Lyons with his family from Sacramento were among the tourists in Norden last Sunday. While here they visited with relatives.

A tempting oyster dinner was served at the Clarence Libby home last Saturday evening. Joseph Casari, Louis Featsent and Calvin Kramer were the invited guests. The honors of the evening were won by none other than Louis Featsent who ate one dozen each of fresh and fried oysters during the meal, Featsent is fond of oysters.

"Double Aye" Linn and wife, Nolan Marion and wife accompanied by "Callee' Callahan all of Norden were Reno visitors Sunday evening at a dinner and theatre party.

Along automobile row in Truckee recently, the Barckarich brothers of Norden have been observed interested in the new Ford cars, since having to coax their Buick up the Donner grade several times in reent weeks.

John Kinsey who was reported ill at his home in Truckee last week with a cold was back on the job on Monday.

Harold Boomer who is employed at Wheatland enjoyed a day in Norden with his family.

Harry Williams of Norden had an interesting Sunday evening at Truckee from current reports.

"Ironman Joe Peters" of Norden has dispelled all worry of his collegues in not having a full wardrobe prior to the winter storms. He has on hand at the present time sufficient wearing apparel to meet his needs for some time.

Thomas Eversalt and family with a party of friends from Norden motored to Sacramento over the week end.

John Robinson found it necessary to remain over a day on business this week on his visit to relatives at Applegate.

Lodi bound was the manner in which Andrew Pfeiffer of Norden answered enquiries last week end, which will require several days to meet a business engagement.

Elwood Atwell, Neil MacIntyre, Raymond Brock and Charles Riley spent Sunday at their respective homes in Colfax.

Radio Recorders Gave High Water Warning

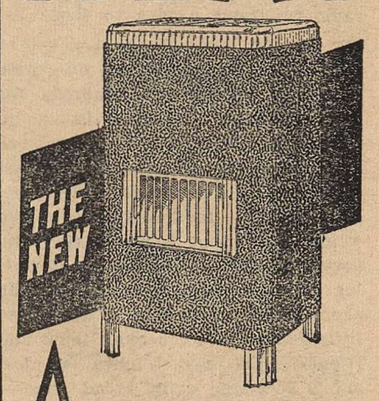

SACRAMENTO, Mar. 5 —(UP)— Value of automatic water stage recorders was stressed in northern California recently during flood conditions throughout the area, according to officials of the state department of public works.

The three automatic radio sending stations located at Vernoa on the Sacramento river, Rattlesnake bridge on the middle fork of the American river and Coloma on the south fork of the American river "operated satisfactorily" throughout the high water period, officials reported.

During the 1935 football season 75,900 players were injured on the gridiron and 30 players died from their injuries.

Immigration laws have excluded an estimated 1,000,000 aliens from the United States since late 1930.

"Thou hast dealt well with thy servant, O Lord, according unto thy word. Thy hands have made me and fashioned me." These words from Psalms comprise the Golden Text to be used Sunday, March 8, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "Man." Included among the Scriptural selections will be: "But as it is written, Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him. For what man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man which is in him?" (I Cor. 2: 9, 11 to?).

The following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included: "God is the Principle of man, and man is the idea of God. Man is the family name for all ideas,—the sons and daughters of God. All that God imparts moves in accord with Him, reflecting goodness and power" (pp. 476,515).

Institute To Select Names for Scholarships

SACRAMENTO, Mar. 5 —(UP)— A request for the names of persons suitable for appointment to scholarships under the program of practical training with federal governmental officials as sponsored by the National Institute of Public officers, has been received by Gov. Frank F. Merriam.

In calling attention to the 30 available scholarships which offer training beginning September 14, 1936, the notice said:

"We are looking for the pick of the country's young men who have shown in their previous educational careers capacity for straight thinging, flexibility of mind, imagination and the quality of bringing things to pass. Will you kindly advise us of any persons to whom you would like us to send applications?"

Valley Towns Profit by High Water Condition

SACRAMENTO, Mar. 5 —(UP)— Recent heavy rains and near-flood conditions in this section of the state have far greater advantages than disadvantages, according to local business men.

"We're protected from high water by levees and an excellent flood control system, and all this water means more moisture in the summertime," said a statement issued by the "boosters" unit of the chamber of commerce.

"Our water tables are going up, little real damage is being caused and the return from this extra moisture in July and August will be tremendous."

Preferred War Rating Denied

SACRAMENTO, Mar. 5 —(UP)— There's a 10-point difference, at least, between the battles of the world war and skirmishes in Nicaragua ten years later, according to a superior court ruling here.

The decision came in the suit of Vonne C. Morris to obtain pre ferential rating on the city civil service list. He contended his service with the marines in Nicaragua in 1928 entitled him to the 10-point advantage accorded war veterans in the ratings.

Only world war veterans are eligible for the preferential rating, the court decided.

Another bit of political scandal which bounced along capitol corridors went something like this:

A rather prominent Sacramentan who helped line up the support of veterans' organizations for Merriam during the 1934 gubernatorial campaign tried and tried without success to pick himself a plum in the form of a job to repay him for his efforts. He asked a friend how he should go about getting a salary under the administration. He was advised to swing into another camp. So he began telling his acquaintances he was going to work for Landon. Shortly afterward he was summoned to the governor's office. It is understood he will hold a good job with the new unemployment insurance division.

Fremont Named Democrat Delegate By Roosevelt

Benton Fremont, grandson of California's first United States senator, has been named Democratic delegate for California's Second Congressional District, embracing 18 counties, by President Roosevelt at the suggestion of Postmaster General James Farley and Senator William G. McAdoo. Fremont, owner of the historic Fremont Ranch near Sonora, Cal., not only is the grandson of the famed General Fremont who ran for President of the United States against James Buchanan, but is also a direct descendant of Senator Thomas Hart Benton, outstanding Democratic leader in the Senate for 30 years. Fremont upon being notified of the appointment declared: "My district voted two to one for Roosevelt.

'Little Big Shot' With Sybil Jason Coming to Donner

"Little Big Shot," the Warner Bros. production, which marks the American film debut of the 5 year old genius, Sybil Jason, has been booked for the Donner Theatre on Saturday, Mar. 7th. It is said to be a powerful drama that contains hilarious comedy, touching pathos and a delightful romance.

There is a four star cast headed by Sybil Jason, and including Glenda Farrell, Robert Armstrong and Edward Everett Horton.

Never was there a more temperamental star than Dolores Del Rio in the Warner Bros. production "I Live for Love," which comes to the Donner Theatre on Sunday, Mar. 8th. But it is not Miss DelRio herself who is tempestuous, but the character she plays. For she is a South American prima donna who believes that the world and the sun revolves about herself.

Claudette Colbert and Fred MacMurray, who met such wide favor as a light romantic team in their first Paramount picture, "The Gilded Lily," are brought together again in the new comedy-romance, "The Bride Comes Home," which opens on Wednesday, March 11 at the Donnor Theatre.

"The Bride Comes Home" is an original story written especially for Miss Colbert by Claude Binyon, and though it resembles "The Gilded Lily" in that it treats on the problems confronting young lovers of today, its originality makes it one of the most amusing screen farces of the year.

S. P. EXPANSION PROGRAM MAKES MANY NEW JOBS

Average employment on Southern Pacific's Pacific Lines, serving six western states, has increased 10 per cent over the same period of last year, 3200 employes having been added to the company's rolls since that time.

This was announced today by A. D. McDonald, president, reporting results of the railroad's far-reaching improvement and expansion program, undertaken early in 1935 and now well under way. The payroll increase based on average employment in January, 1936, as compared with the same period last year, McDonald said, amounts to about $9-725,000 a year or nearly 18 per cent.

Establishment of new train service, both freight and passenger, together with air-conditioning and modernizing of passenger equipment, has been chiefly responsible for the substantial increase in the company's forces.

More than 1,000,000 passenger train miles have been added to the company's annual operations since January 1, this year, with an accompanying increase of $820,000 in operating expenses, according to the announcement.

Aside from the direct employment of railroad men, Southern Pacific, by its outlays for materials and supplies in connection with its expansion activities, has stimulated employment in many other lines, it was pointed out.

Purchase of new equipment, including 3000 refrigerator cars for the Pacific Fruit Express Company, jointly owned by Southern Pacific and Union Pacific, will give employment to thousands of workers in manufacturing plants. The new refrigerator cars alone are to cost more than $10,000,000.

Air-conditioning and modernization of additional passenger cars by Southern Pacific for all of its lines, and by the Pullman Company for use by Southern Pacific this year, is costing about $2,000,000. This work, it was stated, is progressing rapidly, in keeping with plans for delivery of the equipment prior to the opening of the summer travel season.

In his report of the company's outstanding accomplishments within the past year, President McDonald said:

"Beginning last May, Southern Pacific added to its fast merchandise freight service, first by establishing a new overnight train for less than carload shipments between San Francisco and Bakersfield.

"This was followed by inauguration of new merchandise train service between San Francisco, Oakland and the Los Angeles metropolitan area; between San Francisco bay cities and Sacramento Valley points, and just recently between Portland and Klamath Falls.

"In the passenger-carrying field, Southern Pacific has made many notable improvements. A new fast day train has been put on the San Francisco- Fresno run, along with new local service in the lower San Joaquin Valley.

"Of still greater importance was the establishment February 16 of the fastest rail service ever regularly scheduled between San Francisco and Los Angeles. This is now given by the Daylight Limited, which makes the trip in 11 hours flat, cutting one hour and 45 minutes from its previous schedule.

"At the same time, a new passenger train, performing local intermediate service formerly given by the Daylight, was added to the Coast Route.

"Along with other improvements, many schedules have been shortened on the Overland, Shasta and San Joaquin Valley routes, and several trains formerly consolidated over great distances are now being operated independently in through service.

"Numerous other improvements in passenger service, particularly on the Sunset and Golden State routes between Los Angeles, Chicago on the Sunset and Golden State routes between Los Angeles, Chicago and New Orleans, are contemplated and will be realized as soon as possible."
